Support your blended-learning classroom.

The Rosetta Stone® Foundations Supplemental Education Materials (SEMs) provide teachers with a library of resources to support a higher degree of classroom integration. SEMs allow teachers to fully integrate online language learning into their everyday classroom, providing students with additional resources to enhance their language-learning journey.

KEY FEATURES

Teacher's Guide provides complete lesson plans that are sequential to each lesson—stating objectives, identifying the level of difficulty and the learning domains, introducing new vocabulary and grammatical structures, providing recommended materials and activities, and defining the time required to complete the activity.

Workbooks and Classroom Activity Guides provide individual worksheets, quizzes, and tests (not available for K-2 focused resources) for use in bridging content learned in Rosetta Stone online programs into the classroom for review, conversations, and a range of activities.

ROSETTA STONE® SUPPLEMENTAL EDUCATION MATERIALS FOR K–12

Support classroom instruction with online language learning.

Story Series that can be read individually, in small groups, or whole group. The stories are accompanied by comprehension questions and opportunities for learners to apply specifics to their own lives.

Materials are accompanied by a syllabus (not available for all resources) outlining when each worksheet would fit in with online content. Every classroom activity outlined is aligned to Bloom's Taxonomy and the Multiple Intelligences (does not include K-2 focused resources).

We believe in the teacher's ability to change the future for their students.

Online language learning helps students build foundational language skills, expands teachers' instructional reach and content, and allows teachers to focus on higher order learning in the classroom.

Promote student success by supplementing in-class instruction with online language learning, at-home study sessions, and our mobile app for on-the-go learning.
