

All-around support for every English Learner

As the English Learner (EL) population rises, the search for creative and equitable language learning support continues. But no two students learn English in exactly the same way. Each student has unique influences and aspirations as varied as first languages, levels of English skills, school locations, and more.

Rosetta Stone English for Education gives administrators, teachers, and families resources to help students learn English and gain the confidence to speak it, and includes:

- Tools to foster collaborative learning
- A focus on increasing student and family English skills
- Teacher resources to guide home learning

“The Rosetta Stone program increases oral confidence in learners by providing opportunities to practice listening to their own pronunciation and lowering their affective filter.”

Unpack 6 Ways to Support English Learners

1 Rosetta Stone® Foundations

Teachers trust our award-winning online program to help students develop fundamental English language skills, to get learners speaking immediately, and to accelerate the drive toward speaking confidence. Learner success is rooted in Foundation's English immersion environment, carefully sequenced activities, and gamification that makes learning fun while delivering results.

Language Lessons allows students to learn at their own pace, with TruAccent™ patented speech technology always on to guide pronunciation.

Online Games and Activities within a safe, dedicated environment are leveled to the student's progress and reinforce English learned.

Mobile Apps increase student access to English content anytime, anywhere and can even let parents see their learners in action.

Administrator Tools give teachers and admins resources to track learner usage and progress, assess single learners and groups, and create useful reports.

2 Classroom Builders

A teachers' library of resources supports a higher degree of EL classroom integration with activity guides to reinforce online content.

The Teacher's Guide expands teachers' instructional reach with complete lesson plans aligned with online lessons.

Student Activities engage learners with differentiated reading passages, comprehension questions, workbooks, memory games, and more.

"Teachers found that these materials increased student opportunities to apply language, facilitated deeper and broader learning, and increased student engagement."

3 Implementation and Product Training

Our Training and Services teams work closely with administrators and educators to assist in a successful program launch and to monitor overall progress. One key goal is to implement programs that will blend effectively with in-class teacher instruction.

4 Staff Professional Development

An essential part of the English for Education offering is professional development. Educators have access to any two of these training sessions:

- Theory of EL: The Importance of Speaking and Listening
- Strategies for Speaking With and Listening To EL Students
- Project Based Learning with EL Students
- Family and Community Connections
- Writing Portfolios for EL Students

5 Placement and Progress Test for Grades 6-12

What gets measured gets attention. After students in grades 6-12 complete an online assessment, teachers can determine each student's appropriate starting point. Positive learning outcomes are more likely when content aligns with a student's existing proficiency level.

6 Family Connection Resources

Engaging the EL students' families is a vital step in helping learners to achieve speaking confidence and English fluency. Family-related resources within English for Education include:

- Weekly activities to reinforce language learning and help families develop English skills together
- Monthly webinars in Spanish about family support for English Learners, with time for families to ask questions and share ideas
- Teacher best practice tips to increase family engagement in classroom activities

7 Access to The Bridge

Our K-12 online customer community is a special place for teachers to exchange ideas, ask questions, and share best practices. Challenges are presented with rewards to be earned by participating. The Bridge is a friendly, engaging online gathering spot where language teachers connect.
